

1. Carrier pigeons in Dance Dance Revolution. Fly as a pigeon and go through hoops corresponding with correct notes in a song.
2. A famous seafood restaurant in the bottom of the ocean. All of the chefs are “prey” animals and all of the guests are “predators.” For example, turtle cooking for a shark.
3. A bunch of Halloween characters trying to fit in with “normal” society. Follow a typical nuclear family and their struggles to fit into society.
4. An elite avian flight academy. All birds are birds of prey in the school since other birds are considered “not good enough” to be in the school. The main character of the game is a pigeon who is immediately an outcast because it is a pigeon. Pigeon tries to prove the other birds wrong.
5. A survival sandbox game with the main characters as a mom and son. Maybe the game could incorporate a lot of puzzle aspects.
6. The main character is ladybug who’s entire life is in a single rose bush. The object of the game is to climb to the top of the rose bush to receive some sort of reward or enlightenment.
7. Hot air balloon racing and you can customize/upgrade your balloon. Each race gets progressively more difficult, but the upgrade possibilities improve along side the difficulty.